Adolf Hitler wanted Czechoslovakia

Nazi Germany did not invade all of Czechoslovakia in 1938, but through the Munich Agreement (September 1938), Czechoslovakia was forced to cede the German-speaking Sudetenland to Germany, which then occupied the region in October 1938, leaving the rest of the country defenseless, leading to the full German invasion and division of the country in March 1939.

Background in 1938:

Hitler's goals: After the annexation of Austria (Anschluss) in 1938, Hitler turned his attention to Czechoslovakia, a democratic country, to unite German-speaking areas ("Greater Germany").

Sudetenland Crisis: Hitler demanded that the Sudetenland, a region with a large German population and important defense facilities, be handed over to Germany, creating political unrest there.

Munich Agreement (September 1938):

Participants: Great Britain (Neville Chamberlain), France (Édouard Daladier), Germany (Hitler), and Italy (Mussolini).

The Agreement: The Western Powers agreed that Czechoslovakia would cede the Sudetenland to Germany in exchange for a promise of peace. Czechoslovakia was not involved in the negotiations and was pressured to accept.

The Consequence: Between October 1-10, 1938, German troops occupied the Sudetenland, leaving Czechoslovakia militarily defenseless.

The Road to Full Invasion in 1939:

Breach of Agreement: Hitler broke the Munich Agreement by invading the rest of Czechoslovakia. On March 15, 1939, German troops marched into Prague, where they created the Protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia.

Slovak Independence: The day before (March 14, 1939), Slovakia had declared its independence and became a German vassal state.

Several historical figures are widely regarded as infamous traitors due to their betrayals of trust and allegiances. Among the most notable are: Benedict Arnold (American Revolutionary War), Vidkun Quisling (World War II), and Judas Iscariot (biblical figure known for betraying Jesus). Others include Wang Jingwei, who collaborated with Japan during World War II, and Kim Philby, a British intelligence officer who spied for the Soviet Union.

Benedict Arnold:

A general in the Continental Army during the American Revolution, Arnold is notorious for defecting to the British side and leading their forces against his former comrades.

Vidkun Quisling:

A Norwegian politician who collaborated with the Nazi regime during World War II. His name became synonymous with the term "quisling," meaning a person who collaborates with an enemy occupying force.

Judas Iscariot:

A disciple of Jesus who, according to the Bible, betrayed him to the authorities for 30 pieces of silver.

Wang Jingwei:

A Chinese politician who formed a collaborationist government in Japanese-occupied China during World War II. His actions are seen by many as treasonous.

Kim Philby:

A high-ranking British intelligence officer who spied for the Soviet Union for decades. His betrayal was particularly damaging to British intelligence and relations with the United States.

Guy Fawkes:

An English soldier best known for his role in the Gunpowder Plot, a conspiracy to blow up the British Parliament in 1605.

Corfitz Ulfeldt:

A Danish nobleman who defected to Sweden during a period of conflict between the two countries, providing them with valuable information and even financial support, before ultimately being betrayed by the Swedes.

New candidate could be Donald Trump. He betrayed an entire nation and reliable sources indicate that in 1987 he became an agent for the KGB, name Krasnov. Russia used computers and the Internet for his victory in the US Presidential Election.

There are no advantages to introducing a Dictatorship in a country

A dictatorship, where a single person or a small group of people have all the power, has several disadvantages, including limited political freedom and participation, suppression of freedom of expression, human rights violations, and an increased risk of war.

Disadvantages of dictatorship:

Limited political freedom: Citizens have limited or no ability to influence political decisions, and opposition parties may be banned or severely restricted.

Suppression of freedom of expression: Censorship and restrictions on press freedom are common.

Human rights violations: Dictatorships often prioritize the interests of the state over those of the individual, leading to human rights violations.

Increased risk of war: Dictatorships may be more likely to go to war than democracies.

Less economic development: Dictatorships may have poorer economic development than democracies.

Risk of corruption: Dictatorships may have higher levels of corruption.

Risk of personality cult: Dictators may use their power to create a personality cult.

Lack of political diversity: Restrictions on political participation and freedom of expression can hinder the development of society and prevent diverse interests from being represented.

Risk of violence and persecution: Citizens may fear being subjected to violence or persecution because of their opinions or identity.

Lack of accountability: Dictators are not accountable to the people.

Wealth of Donald Trump

is not publicly known.

The net worth of American politician and businessman Donald Trump, the 47th and previously 45th president of the United States, is not publicly known. For decades, Forbes has assessed his wealth, currently estimating it at $5.5 billion as of early May 2025. Meanwhile, Bloomberg estimated his wealth at $7.08 billion in January 2025, although Trump himself claims a much higher net worth. However, after the launch of $Trump, Trump's own cryptocurrency, Axios temporarily estimated his net worth to be $58 billion. He received gifts, loans, and inheritance from his father, who was a real-estate developer and businessman. Donald Trump's primary business has been real estate ventures, including hotels, casinos, and golf courses. He also made money from Trump-branded products including neckties, steaks, and urine tests. Money received through political fundraisers is used to pay for guest stays at properties owned by The Trump Organization and to pay his and his allies' lawyers.

Ruling a country through a dictatorship has no benefits other than for the Dictator and inner circle. In the US now the highest members of the Republican Party. The risk of lack of freedom, and killing increases. It is historically proven. So why does the Supreme Court let a president get away with all crimes no matter how terrible the crime is.

Just to give perspective on this incredible murder by government, if all these bodies were laid head to toe, with the average height being 5', then they would circle the earth ten times. Also, this democide murdered 6 times more people than died in combat in all the foreign and internal wars of the century. Finally, given popular estimates of the dead in a major nuclear war, this total democide is as though such a war did occur, but with its dead spread over a century.

Wealth of Donald Trump

Gifts, loans, and other wealth from his father

Drawing upon more than 100,000 pages of tax returns and financial records from Fred Trump's businesses and interviews with former advisers and employees, the New York Times found 295 distinct streams of revenue that Fred Trump created over five decades in order to channel his wealth to his son. In a 2007 sworn deposition, he acknowledged borrowing $9.6 million from his father's estate, and on the presidential campaign trail in 2015, he admitted to borrowing $1 million from his father as a young adult.

Trust funds

Trump is the beneficiary of several trust funds set up by his father and paternal grandmother, which began in 1949 when he was three. According to The New York Times, he "was a millionaire by age 8." In 1976, Fred Trump set up trust funds of $1 million ($5.5 million in 2024 dollars) for each of his five children and three grandchildren. Donald Trump received $90,000 in 1980 and $214,605 in 1981 through the fund.

Tax fraud

For four years, Fred Trump held shares in the Trump Palace condos, and in 1991, he sold them to his son well below their purchase price, masking what could be considered a hidden donation and giving him the benefit of tax write-off. Fred Trump died in 1999. In 2018, when the matter came to light, the New York State tax department and New York City officials said they would investigate. The court found that Donald Trump had for years committed fraud against banks, insurers, and others by exaggerating his net worth and significantly overvaluing assets in documents used to make deals and secure financing.

Wealth of Donald Trump

The fraud included two of his residences: his apartment in Trump Tower (the statements claimed it was roughly triple its true size and value) and Mar-a-Lago (the statements inflated its value by approximately 22 times). In 2024, Trump was found liable for $355 million in disgorgement and roughly $100 million in interest. His oldest two sons (Donald Trump Jr. and Eric Trump) were ordered to pay $4 million each, while Allen Weisselberg was ordered to pay $1 million. After the decision, interest continued to accrue. As Donald Trump did not pay the judgment while he appealed the decision, by the end of 2024, the total he owed had increased to over $500 million.

Inheritance

In 1993, when Trump took two loans totaling $30 million from his siblings, their anticipated shares of Fred's estate amounted to $35 million each. Upon Fred Trump's death in 1999, his will divided $20 million (after taxes) among his surviving children.

Lawsuits

From the 1970s until he was elected president in 2016, Donald Trump and his businesses were involved in over 4,000 legal cases in U.S. federal and state courts, including battles with casino patrons, million-dollar real estate lawsuits, personal defamation lawsuits, and over 100 business tax disputes. At least 25 women accused him of sexual harassment or sexual assault.

Real estate

In 2015, in Manhattan, Trump's name was displayed on 17 buildings, plus Wollman Rink, and, in the Bronx, his name was on the Trump Golf Links golf course. Where his name appears on a building, it does not necessarily mean he owns the building; it represents his ownership of a unit within the building, a licensing agreement or condition of sale, or property management by the Trump Organization.

The Apprentice

From his television show The Apprentice and related licensing and endorsements, Trump received $427.4 million from the show's beginning in 2004 through 2018. Due largely to income received from the show, he paid a combined $70.1 million in federal taxes in 2005, 2006, and 2007. He paid no taxes in 2008. When he filed taxes in 2009, he declared over $700 million in business losses and, on that basis, he asked for a refund of his federal income taxes paid in 2005–2007. He was eventually refunded the $70.1 million plus over $2.7 million in interest. As of 2020, auditors were still considering the matter. If he is asked to return that federal refund, then, considering added interest and penalties, he may owe over $100 million to the federal government. The New York Times said: "He also received $21.2 million in state and local refunds, which often piggyback on federal filings," and he may be obligated to return those refunds, too.

Foundation

The Donald J. Trump Foundation was a New York–based tax-exempt private foundation formed in 1988 by Donald Trump and dissolved by court order in 2018 after various legal violations came to light. The foundation was created to receive royalties from Trump's 1987 book Trump: The Art of the Deal as well as donations from others, for the stated purpose of distributing the funds to charitable causes. Trump's children Ivanka, Eric, and Donald Jr. served on the board, which did not meet after 1999. Trump stopped contributing to the foundation in 2008, but continued to solicit donations. The foundation's activities came under scrutiny during the 2016 presidential election campaign, initially by The Washington Post's David Fahrenthold. Law enforcement investigators subsequently discovered various ethical and legal violations, including failure to register in New York, self-dealing and illegal campaign contributions. In December 2016, Trump tried to dissolve the foundation, but the New York State Attorney General's office blocked dissolution pending completion of its investigations. Trump served as its president until January 2017, three days after his inauguration as U.S. president. On June 14, 2018, New York attorney general Barbara Underwood filed a civil suit against the foundation, Trump himself, and Trump's adult children—Ivanka, Eric and Donald Jr.—alleging "a shocking pattern of illegality" with respect to the foundation's money. On December 18, 2018, Underwood announced that the foundation had agreed to shut down under court supervision and distribute its remaining assets to court-approved charities, although she did not end investigations of the foundation and its directors. In November 2019, Trump admitted to using the foundation for his business and political purposes and was ordered to pay $2 million as restitution.

First presidency

Additionally, Trump was required to reimburse $11,525 to the foundation, which was added to $1,797,598.30 already in the foundation's bank account. The money as well as the funds in the foundation's bank were paid to eight charities in December 2019.

The winding down of the foundation and the settlement did not end investigations of the foundation and its directors nor resolve any other potential prosecutions of Trump and others arising from the dealings by or through the foundation. On February 22, 2021, the Supreme Court in Trump v. Vance (no relation to now-Vice President JD Vance) rejected any further delay in the production of Trump's tax records by Trump's accountants Mazars, under an August 2019 subpoena. Mazars handed over to Vance millions of pages of documents containing Trump's tax returns from January 2011 to August 2019, as well as financial statements, engagement agreements, documents relating to the preparation and review of tax returns, and work papers and communications related to the tax returns.

During his campaign, the Trump Organization owed nearly $20 million to L/P Daewoo, a company with ties to North Korea. This debt was not mentioned in the Trump campaign's financial disclosure filings. The loan was paid off five months into his presidency.

"I became President because of the brand...I think it's the hottest brand in the world," Trump testified in April 2023 in the New York civil investigation. He suggested that the "brand value" of the U.S. presidency had been worth to him "maybe $10 billion or something."

During his presidency, Trump reported over $1.6 billion of outside revenue and income from his companies, including the Trump Organization. "While Trump publicly took credit for donating his taxpayer-funded salary," Citizens for Responsibility and Ethics in Washington noted that the presidential salary he donated was not even one-thousandth of what he was earning as a businessman.

Political donations from small and large donors alike ended up funding Trump's personal businesses. During his presidency, his businesses received $8.5 million from political fundraising under his control, including the Trump campaign, and $2 million from other Republican fundraising sources. Though the Trump Organization claimed it would let federal employees who traveled with President Trump stay at his properties "for free" or "at cost", it charged the Secret Service up to $1,185 per night, generating over $1.4 million in Secret Service lodging expenses over four years. This bill is charged to taxpayers and paid to the Trump Organization. During the first two years of his term, the governments of China, Turkey, Malaysia, Saudi Arabia, Qatar, and the United Arab Emirates spent a combined total of over $700,000 at the Trump International Hotel in Washington, D.C.

Wealth of Donald Trump

On March 17, 2023, Washington, D.C. representative Jamie Raskin, Ranking Member of the Committee on Oversight and Accountability, released a report on Donald Trump. Trump and his family members were accused of failing to publicly provide details about more than 100 foreign gifts he received. Some records disclosed that Saudi Arabia's crown prince Mohammad bin Salman provided 16 unreported gifts worth more than $45,000 to Trump, including swords and daggers. Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe gifted Golden Golf Clubs to Trump. India provided 17 gifts, with an estimated value of $47,000. On January 3, 2024, Raskin and House Oversight Committee Democrats released a report showing that Trump's businesses had received $7.8 million in payments from foreign governments during his presidency. On January 10, during a Fox News town hall, Trump admitted that foreign governments had paid him for hotel stays. "I was doing services for that," Trump said. Raskin demanded that Trump return all money received to the U.S. Treasury.

Because the ruling in the New York civil case banned him from "borrowing from New York-chartered banks until 2027," the Financial Times wrote in February 2024, "this sharply raises the leverage of potential lenders in the Gulf and elsewhere.

The Spy in The White House

Spy

Agent name

Krasnov

Of course, this story is uncertain, but the fact is that the sources have had access to the information that could have been necessary. Donald Trump has also been physically present when the recruitment allegedly took place. Contacts with Vladimir Putin are frequent by phone. Looking at Donald Trump's actions right now in the White House, there are a number of measures that are taking place that are perfect for Vladimir Putin and the list seems to have been written almost by Vladimir Putin. I would not have trusted a normal spy organization that does not see this (CIA).

Operation Burning US From The INSIDE

The Spy in The White House

Former KGB agents Alnur Mussayev and Yuri Shvets say that Trump was contacted as early as 1987 to be cultivated as an asset, i.e. a potential spy. Trump is still considered such by Russia today. This means that he is the highest-ranking Russian spy at the moment.

Yuri Shvets is a former KGB major and he has confirmed that the above facts are true. He adds that it was easy to dupe Trump, because he was stupid enough to go for it.

Trump had become the target of the KGB already during his first trip to Moscow and Russia. The KGB had analyzed his personality, as a "God complex", "greedy", and a perfect candidate to cultivate as a spy. The KGB made him believe in new big deals in Russia and also planted the idea that Trump should enter politics. Already in 1987, Trump was considered to be on the KGB's list of "Assets".

Alnur Aljapparuly Mussayev ; born 4 January 1954; Lugovoye, Lugovsky District, Dzhambul Region, Soviet Union) was the former head of Kazakhstan's National Security Committee (KNC) under the tenure of President Nursultan Nazarbayev. He served from May 1997 to September 1998, then returned for a second term from August 1999 to May 2001 after his predecessor Nurtai Abykayev was sacked in a scandal over the sale of old MiG fighter planes to North Korea.

In 2007, Mussayev fled Kazakhstan along with his former deputy Rakhat Aliyev to Vienna, Austria. Mussayev accused the government of widespread corruption and payments of millions of dollars in bribes by western oil companies to President Nazarbayev. The government of Kazakhstan has convicted him of crimes in absentia as a result of his defection.

An attempted kidnapping of Mussayev took place in Vienna in September 2008. The Austrian government declined comment on the perpetrators' origins at the time. In a January 2010 trial, defendant Ildar A., one of three men charged with the kidnap attempt on Mussayev, was found not guilty by an Austrian court. Mussayev described the verdict as "politically motivated" and an "attempt to please Kazakhstan".

Yuri Borysovykh Shvets (born 16 May 1953) is a former Soviet intelligence officer of Ukrainian origin. He was a Major in the KGB between 1980 and 1990. From April 1985 to 1987, he was a resident spy in Washington, D.C. While there, he held a cover job as a correspondent for TASS, a Soviet state-owned news agency. He left the KGB in September 1990.

In his book, Shvets alleges he had recruited two key sources of political intelligence — "Socrates", a former aide to President Jimmy Carter with strong ties to Greece, and his wife "Sputnitsa" (Russian: Спутница, lit. 'companion'), a journalist working in Washington. Some of these details were called into question. Later, on "60 Minutes", Shvets had identified Socrates as John Helmer, an Australian-born journalist, who denied being Socrates.

Move to America

After publishing a book describing his exploits and ultimate falling out with the KGB, Shvets was banned from foreign travel. In 1993, he moved permanently to the United States, where he later gained citizenship. Shvets was a key source for the 2021 book American Kompromat by Craig Unger, which details claims that Donald Trump is a Soviet, and later Russian, asset.

Yuri Shvets
Major in KGB

During the trial, Mussayev claimed not to know Ildar A., but he admitted in press comments soon after that this was not entirely accurate, as he knew the defendant professionally but not personally; he explained the discrepancy by claiming that his oath to Kazakhstan prevented him from revealing this information.

In 2015, Mussayev faced charges for the abduction and murder of two bankers in the Nurbank murder case. The primary suspect in the case, Rakhat Aliyev, was found hanged in his prison cell before the trial began. The trial was one of the most complex in Austrian history with over 60 witnesses. Mussayev was cleared of all charges.

In 2025, Mussayev reportedly claimed that Donald Trump had been recruited by the KGB in 1987 and given the codename "Krasnov."

Now it is clear that Donald Trump wants to become a dictator in the USA. Will his party friends also become complicit in the crimes that need to be committed along the way? Will we see a historic trial like the ones in Germany, when Nazis received their sentences and punishments?

Large parts of the American people make the same mistake as the German people in 1933. That mistake cost humanity about 60 million dead (World War II) Hitler was voted into power with roughly 33% of the vote. In the same year he took power and transformed himself into a Dictator. In 1923 he had tried for the first time. Donald Trump has tried to seize power illegally, through a series of strange attempts to act outside Democratic rules.

Ancient Greek tyrants

Tyrannicide can be considered a moral duty. Cicero argues that when a ruler becomes a tyrant, violating the laws and oppressing the people, it is the duty of citizens to protect the state and restore justice, even if it means taking drastic measures such as killing the tyrant.

Ancient Greek tyrants

A tyrant (from Ancient Greek τύραννος (túrannos) 'absolute ruler'), in the modern English usage of the word, is an absolute ruler who is unrestrained by law, or one who has usurped a legitimate ruler's sovereignty. Often portrayed as cruel, tyrants may defend their positions by resorting to repressive means. The original Greek term meant an absolute sovereign who came to power without constitutional right, yet the word had a neutral connotation during the Archaic and early Classical periods. However, Greek philosopher Plato saw tyrannos as a negative form of government, and on account of the decisive influence of philosophy on politics, deemed tyranny the "fourth and worst disorder of a state."

Tyrants lack "the very faculty that is the instrument of judgment"—reason. The tyrannical man is enslaved because the best part of him (reason) is enslaved, and likewise, the tyrannical state is enslaved, because it too lacks reason and order

Tyranner saknar "själva förmågan som är bedömningsinstrumentet" – förnuft. Den tyranniska mannen är förslavad eftersom den bästa delen av honom (förnuftet) är förslavad, och likaså är den tyranniska staten förslavad, eftersom den också saknar förnuft och ordning (Swedish)

Ancient Greek tyrants

Tyrannicide

Tyrannicide is the killing or assassination of a tyrant or unjust ruler, purportedly for the common good, and usually by one of the tyrant's subjects. Tyrannicide was legally permitted and encouraged in Classical Athens. Often, the term "tyrant" was a justification for political murders by rivals, but in some exceptional cases students of Platonic philosophy risked their lives against tyrants. The killing of Clearchus of Heraclea in 353 BC by a cohort led by his own court philosopher is considered a sincere tyrannicide. A person who carries out a tyrannicide is also called a "tyrannicide".

Dictators to Day

Donald Trump was already a sociopath at the age of eight. Even then, he physically abused his teachers. He lacks empathy like sociopaths do. He was already a millionaire at the age of eight. Money came from his father. In 1987, he had the KGB, the Soviet spy organization, recruit him. Agentnamn Krasnov.

In 2015, the US election was rigged and he became president. Russia had troll factories with 1,000s of people influencing social media during the election. The next election in 2020 was lost and he participated in the storming of the Capitol where deaths occurred. By winning the next election he has acted as an agent for Russia would have done and he has damaged the United States for many years to come. He is already acting as if he believes he is a Dictator. Which he cannot yet be classified as. If you think about how the Greeks thought, it was the duty of the citizens to kill a Dictator and to protect the state in the first place. The alternative of letting the damage to the state get worse over time was not an option in this case. If you look at Adolf Hitler, he is an example. For 12 years, he completely destroyed the state of Germany and was responsible for 17 million murders or deaths due to his decisions. He had 42 assassination plots against him.

Ancient Greek tyrants

The philosophers Plato and Aristotle defined a tyrant as a person who rules without law, using extreme and cruel methods against both his own people and others. The Encyclopédie defined the term as a usurper of sovereign power who makes "his subjects the victims of his passions and unjust desires, which he substitutes for laws". In the late fifth and fourth centuries BC, a new kind of tyrant, one who had the support of the military, arose – specifically in Sicily.

One can apply accusations of tyranny to a variety of types of government:

to government by one individual (in an autocracy)

to government by a minority (in an oligarchy, tyranny of the minority) to government by a majority (in a democracy, tyranny of the majority) is either what is shared and beneficial for all or most members of a given community, or alternatively, what is achieved by citizenship, collective action, and active participation in the realm of politics and public service. The concept of the common good differs significantly among philosophical doctrines. Early conceptions of the common good were set out by Ancient Greek philosophers, including Aristotle and Plato. One understanding of the common good rooted in Aristotle's philosophy remains in common usage today, referring to what one contemporary scholar calls the "good proper to, and attainable only by, the community, yet individually shared by its members."

Ancient Greek tyrants

In contemporary economic theory, a common good is any good which is rivalrous yet non-excludable, while the common good, by contrast, arises in the subfield of welfare economics and refers to the outcome of a social welfare function. Such a social welfare function, in turn, would be rooted in a moral theory of the good (such as utilitarianism). Social choice theory aims to understand processes by which the common good may or may not be realized in societies through the study of collective decision rules. Public choice theory applies microeconomic methodology to the study of political science in order to explain how private interests affect political activities and outcomes.

It is when one another respects others' dignity and rights

For the Ancient Greeks, the Common Good was the flourishing of the hierarchical network of people, known as the polis (one's city, or state).

"certain general conditions that are ... equally to everyone's advantage".

Salus publica suprema lex esto,
"The common good is the supreme law",
in the Swiss Parliament

Ancient Greek tyrants

Tyrannicide can also be a political theory and, as an allegedly justified form of the crime of murder, a dilemmatic case in the philosophy of law, and as such dates from antiquity. Plato describes a violent tyrant as the opposite of a good and "true king" in the Statesman, and while Aristotle in the Politics sees it as opposed to all other beneficial forms of government, he also described tyrannicide mainly as an act by those wishing to gain personally from the tyrant's death, while those who act without hope of personal gain or to make a name for themselves are rare.

Support for tyrannicide can be found in Cicero's De Officiis. Cicero presents a philosophical stance that in certain extreme circumstances, tyrannicide can be considered a moral duty. Cicero argues that when a ruler becomes a tyrant, violating the laws and oppressing the people, it is the duty of citizens to protect the state and restore justice, even if it means taking drastic measures such as killing the tyrant.

He believed that the welfare of the state and the protection of its citizens should take precedence over the life of a tyrant who endangers these principles.

Elon Musk's plan is actually from a book from 1855. Technocrats take over the world and dismantle important social functions and they appoint a council from among their extremely rich friends to make the decisions. Ordinary people are far too stupid. See for yourself they were completely fooled by voting for and believing all the lies that Donald Trump spun out of himself at his ridiculous rallies

If you're a little confused about what Musk is trying to achieve with DOGE, here's the breakdown....

If you're a little confused about what Musk is trying to achieve with DOGE, here's the breakdown:

Elon Musk and Peter Thiel cofounded a company that became PayPal.

Other executives at PayPal went on to found or lead other huge tech companies including YouTube, LinkedIn, Reddit, Affirm, and many VC firms.

This group became known as the PayPal mafia because they exerted an outsized influence on Silicon Valley.

Peter Thiel mentored a young JD Vance and helped him get set up in his first VC firm.

Peter Thiel and the PayPal mafia funded JD Vance's successful Senate run. Amazing because he had absolutely zero political experience.

Thiel and Musk all but forced Trump to choose JD Vance as VP in exchange for funding his presidential campaign.

The three of them, plus a lot of other tech billionaires subscribe to an ideology called the Dark Enlightenment espoused by this super weird, creepy dude: Curtis Yarvin aka Mencius Moldbug.

Yarvin preaches that the media and academia represent "The Cathedral" that secretly controls power and must be dismantled.

He advocates for a corporate run, monarchy, led by a CEO-Dictator.

Says that Democracy is an "outdated software" and openly opposes it and that:

- Government agencies should be dismantled and The U.S. should be broken up into "patchworks" controlled by tech oligarchs.
- That the elite tech billionaires should rule because they have the intelligence to "fix" society
- That the "masses are asses" too dumb to govern themselves.

The strategy is to gut the government via R.A.G.E - Retire All Govt Employees to make government incapable of operating.

Then to replace government with private corporations.

To eliminate elections because they are "obsolete"

To use distraction and chaos to prevent public resistance.

Trump is their useful tool to be disposed of as soon as they can wrest control.

This is why Elon wears a black MAGA hat. They are not Trump supporters, they are "Dark MAGA"

This isn't a hypothetical. The plan is already in motion:

- Musk, Thiel, and their network are actively dismantling democratic institutions.
- JD Vance, the "MAGA heir," is being

Smith? William Henry Smyth used the term Technocracy in his 1919 article "'Technocracy'—Ways and Means to Gain Industrial Democracy," in the journal Industrial Management. However, Smyth's usage referred to Industrial democracy: a movement to integrate workers into decision making through existing firms or revolution. The term came to mean government by technical decision making in 1932. Hence there is no connection what so ever with the actual Technocracy movement.

Subject: Early technocracy Symth was one of the earliest people to promote a form of technocracy. Technocracy came to the fore in 1933 with many technocracy organisations forming then. Technocracy inc became the only survivor of that timer and is still around today. In Europe, NET was formed in 2004. The Network of European Technocrats (N.E.T.) is an autonomous research organisation comprised of volunteer members from around the world. Although we have many members who work as experienced scientist and engineers and hold science and engineering degrees as well as PhDs NET welcomes a diversity of members with many different levels of skills and interests. NET works towards a better tomorrow! NET does not consider today's socioeconomic system as sustainable. We have many problems from poverty to peak oil to climate change and global warming to exploitation of our natural biosphere as well as people. We propose an alternative sustainable system based on the application of science and engineering that aims for a high standard of living for all in a technological society that balances our needs with those of nature. NET proposes a distributed, holonic, system where all technology would come under the management of experts each in their specialist field (which makes our proposal a type of technocracy) and where the people manage the non-technical aspects of society through a process of direct democracy. NET proposes local as possible to where people will feel the effect of those decisions. Power become distributed and not centralised. NET propose removing our current debt based financial system with a demand based distributed resources allocation system that allocates production capacity in terms of energy to each individual. Behind the scenes experts would managed the system to minimise our impact on the world. NET propose a sustainable system built up from localised sustainable communities. Our members current work on developing and experimenting with these ideas. We have many projects on going and we also have activities off the web as well such a film events and lectures.

Washington trials 2028 - 2029

A hypothetical but likely future event. Unprecedented violations of the American Constitution and treason are being tried. Several people involved are charged with crimes against the US state.

In a fractured America, a landmark trial unfolds, forcing the nation to confront its past as former President Donald Trump, tech mogul Elon Musk, and a hundred Republican senators stand accused of treason, threatening to shatter the fragile peace.

Washington trials 2028 - 2029

Year: 2028. The United States is a changed nation. Political divisions have deepened, and trust in institutions is at an all-time low. A new, centrist President, Eleanor Vance, struggles to hold the country together.

Consequences:

Trump and Musk are sent to maximum-security prisons. Their empires crumble, and their legacies are forever tarnished.

The Republican Party is thrown into chaos, struggling to redefine itself in the wake of the scandal.

America grapples with the long-term consequences of the trial, including deep divisions, economic instability, and a crisis of faith in its institutions.

Hope for the Future: Despite the turmoil, there are glimmers of hope. President Vance works to implement reforms aimed at strengthening democracy, promoting transparency, and addressing the root causes of political polarization. The nation begins a slow and painful process of reconciliation and rebuilding.

The SA unit in Berlin in 1932

In September 1930, as a consequence of the Stennes revolt in Berlin, Hitler assumed supreme command of the SA as its new Oberster SA-Führer. By the time Hitler assumed power in January 1933, SA membership had increased to approximately 2,000,000—twenty times as large as the number of troops and officers in the Reichswehr (German Army). Storm Division' or 'Storm Troopers') was the original paramilitary organisation under Adolf Hitler and the Nazi Party of Germany. It played a significant role in Hitler's rise to power in the 1920s and early 1930s. Its primary purposes were providing protection for Nazi rallies and assemblies, disrupting the meetings of opposing parties, fighting against the paramilitary units of the opposing parties. The SA were colloquially called Brownshirts.

A Roman road linked Altenstadt – now in French Alsace and a constituent community of Wissembourg – with the Rhineland; an early settlement here was prosperous in Roman times. Many archaeological finds are evidence of settlement by merchants, former legionnaires and also winegrowers from about 79 BC to at least 383 AD. A Frankish clan arose about 500 and its chief, Chagilo, became the village's namesake.

In 824, Kallstadt was first mentioned in records as Cagelenstat. Originally an Imperial Village, it later passed to the County of Pfeffingen (Homburg). From 1321 it was held in fief first by the Monfort knights, and then from 1451 until about 1551 by the House of Blicken von Lichtenberg. From then until 1794, Kallstadt belonged as an Electoral Palatinate fief to the holdings of the House of Leiningen.

The Left Bank of the Rhine was occupied by France during the War of the First Coalition in 1794. Following the Treaty of Campo Formio (1797), the First French Republic annexed the region and, between 1798 and 1814, Kallstadt belonged to the French department of Mont-Tonnerre. Kallstadt came under Austrian rule, but Austria quickly exchanged the area with the Kingdom of Bavaria in 1816. After this agreement, Kallstadt belonged to Bavaria, which joined the German Empire in 1871.

The Palatinate was separated from Bavaria in 1946 and became a part of the new State of Rhineland-Palatinate, a founding state of the Federal Republic of Germany. A referendum to restore the union of the Palatinate and Bavaria failed in 1956, and Kallstadt continues to belong to Rhineland-Palatinate.

Heinz and Trump families

Kallstadt is the ancestral home of immigrant ancestors of both the Heinz and Trump families in the United States. The two families are related. The Trump family has resided in Kallstadt since the 17th century.

In 2015, filmmaker Simone Wendel, who is from Kallstadt (and remotely related to the Trump family), produced a documentary called Kings of Kallstadt. The film explores the relationship between the local inhabitants and their prominent relatives in the USA. Wendel showed the strong and longstanding winemaking and gastronomic tradition in Kallstadt. She suggests that the locals have more appreciation for the Heinz family, as their main product has been practical condiment, and is less abstract than Trump's real-estate business.

Residents are not interested in the city as a destination for Trump fans; local tourism is already flourishing.

Friedrich Trump was born in Kallstadt, Palatinate, then part of the Kingdom of Bavaria, now located in modern-day Germany, to Christian Johannes Trump (1829–1877) and Katharina Kober (1836–1922).

Friedrich Trump 1869 - 1918

Frederick Trump (born Friedrich Trump; 14 March 1869 – 30 May 1918) was a German–American businessman and the patriarch of the Trump family. Born in Kallstadt, in the Kingdom of Bavaria (now in Rhineland-Palatinate, Germany), he emigrated to the United States at the age of 16 and started working as a barber. Several years later, in 1891, he moved to the Northwest. He allegedly made his fortune by operating restaurants and brothels in Seattle and the mining town Monte Cristo, and brothels in the Klondike Gold Rush. He later returned to Kallstadt and married Elisabeth Christ. Bavarian authorities accused him of emigrating when he was too young to avoid fulfilling his military service, so he lost his Bavarian citizenship; he and his family returned to the United States. He became a U.S. citizen in 1892.

He worked as a barber and hotel manager, and began to acquire real estate in Queens. He was the father of Frederick Christ Trump and John G. Trump, and grandfather of Donald Trump.

Frederick Trump 1905 - 1999

Frederick Christ Trump (October 11, 1905 – June 25, 1999) was an American businessman and philanthropist. He was a prominent real-estate developer in New York City. He was the father of Donald Trump, the 45th president of the United States, and Maryanne Trump Barry, a former United States Court of Appeals judge.

In partnership with his mother Elizabeth Christ Trump, he began a career in home construction and sales. The real estate development company was incorporated as E. Trump & Son in 1927, and grew to build and manage single-family houses in Queens, barracks and garden apartments for U.S. Navy personnel near major shipyards along the East Coast, and more than 27,000 apartments in New York City.

From Drumpf to Trump

Donald Trump's paternal ancestry is traceable to Bobenheim am Berg, a village in the Palatinate, Germany, in the 18th century. Johann Trump, born in Bobenheim in 1789, moved to the nearby village of Kallstadt where his grandson, Friedrich Trump, the grandfather of Donald Trump, was born in 1869. This German heritage was long concealed by Donald Trump's father, Fred Trump,

According to the local phone book, there are 10 or 12 Trumps located just outside of Kallstadt. But no one in the rural wine region is interested in talking about the American presidential race.

His grandfather didn't use the name Drumpf. Although that had been the originally spelling of the family's name, it had already been changed during the reign of Napoleon around the turn of the 19th century, according to the transportation association in Kallstadt.
